"The Cardinal's Snuff-Box"
(85th Thousand)

12mo, $1.50

The 50th Thousand Just Printed!

The New York Sun:

"A book full of sunshine and sparkle."
"A book without a shadow."

The New York Tribune:

"All extremely captivating."
"We delight in him."
"A novel one cannot help enjoying."

The Baltimore Sun:

"The brightest piece of fiction that we have read in many moons."
"The most brilliant of contemporary novelists."

THE STORY OF EDEN

By DOLF WYLLARDE

12mo, $1.50

"Brilliant!" "Daring!" "Outspoken!"

The Brooklyn Eagle writes:

"A brilliant, strong, entertaining novel, full of lively conversation, and free from any sort of morbidness or dreary pretension. For once in a way everything comes out all right: the dreaded witness is, in fact, dead; Vibart himself is satisfactorily killed; so Madge's secret remains conveniently buried forever—and that is how it happens in real life, more frequently than not."

Chicago Record-Herald:

"A daring novel, bold and outspoken."

Margaret Bowlby

A Love Story By EDGAR L. VINCENT

This might well be named "The Politician." Robert Kemp is a young mine superintendent employed at Bowlby's mine. The mine-workers to a man are back of Kemp, who has shown himself their friend and eager to improve their condition. They push him for the Legislature; but he is beaten in caucus by Bowlby himself, who is nominated. Margaret, his daughter, now comes to the front as the Politician, and by magnificent sagacity secures Robert's nomination to the upper house. As a supporter of workingmen, his career is up to the Governorship and the United States Senate. A woman's ambition and love shape his course. It is a love story of remarkable sweetness and a political story of great power, full of dramatic situations.

Bound in Blue Cloth, Decorated Cover, Rough Edges. Size, 5¼ x 7¾. Price, $1.50.

Five Little Peppers Abroad

By MARGARET SIDNEY Illustrated by FANNY CORY

This very newest of the Pepper stories is just as charming as the oth famous books that have preceded it in the series. It takes Mother Pepper — now Mother Fisher — the little doctor, Polly, and Phronsie over seas, with Grandpapa King, Jasper and Parson and Mrs. Henderson. There in new scenes and new experiences the brightness, the wit, the kindliness, the keen knowledge of child nature that have made all the Pepper Books so irresistible, are just as conspicuous as they have been in the Pepper stories at home.

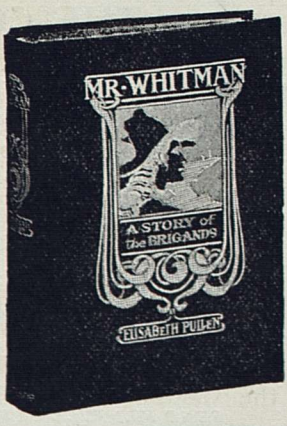
Bound in Green Cloth, Illustrated Cover. Size, 5¼ x 7¾. Price, $1.10 net. Postpaid, $1.25.

Mr. Whitman

A Story of the Brigands By ELISABETH PULLEN

A bright, original, quaintly humorous, and charming piece of Stocktonian work. Mr. Jeremiah Whitman, a practical American business man, has a sort of "Jekyll and Hyde" nature, so far as his business side and his poetical side are concerned. He must see Italy. Captured by brigands, he wins them by his courage, sets the band and its operations on a business basis, forms the Travellers' Relief Association, and in his first operation attacks the coach in which the young Italian señorita, he has fallen in love with, is travelling. The complications are refreshing, the humor captivating, and the results delightful.

Bound in Green Cloth, Illustrated Cover, Rough Edges. Size, 5¼ x 7¾. Price, $1.50.



LOTHROP PUBLISHING COMPANY, BOSTON

The GATE OF THE KISS

By JOHN W. HARDING

THE GATE OF THE KISS

A Romance in the Days of Hezekiah

"'WE OUGHT TO REACH A SPRING AND TREES BY SUNDOWN.'"

Four Illustrations by GEORGE VARIAN

PRICE $1.50

"THE Gate of the Kiss" picturesquely reproduces the court life of Eastern civilization among the Jews and Assyrians, with all its pomp and splendor and corruption, its dramatically contrasted high and low, its clashing good and evil. Great historical figures like Hezekiah, Isaiah, and Sennacherib enliven it. It is written in a robust, full-colored style befitting this theme. It has no dull spots, and is a happy change from the "nothing doing," anæmic kind of realistic fiction.

LOTHROP PUBLISHING COMPANY, BOSTON

PUBLISHED ONLY TWO WEEKS AGO TO-DAY

"Mr. Hough has written one of the best novels that has come out of America in many a day. 'The Mississippi Bubble' is on entirely new lines, and while thoroughly dramatic, is never sensational. It is an exciting story, with the literary touch on every page."—JEANNETTE L. GILDER, editor of The Critic.

AND NOW IT IS THE BEST SELLING BOOK IN MANY CITIES . . .

"Mr. Hough deserves the success that will undoubtedly attend 'The Mississippi Bubble.' The book has all the elements of success—construction, action, portrayal of character, sustained interest, and that convincing quality without which all the rest are in vain."—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

BOOKSELLERS QUICKLY SEE ITS MERIT, AND RECOMMEND IT WITH MORE HEARTINESS THAN ANY OTHER BOOK PUBLISHED THIS YEAR . . . . . .

"The publishers have done their share in making the book attractive. The illustrations, by Henry Hutt, are unusually good, while the cover design—a golden bubble, upon which is imposed the heraldic lily of France—is striking."—Brooklyn Eagle.

NOTES IN SEASON.

JAMIESON-HIGGINS CO., Chicago., will publish next week a novel entitled "The Gospel of Judas Iscariot," by Aaron Dwight Baldwin. The author adopts the original meaning of the word "gospel," i.e., "good story;" and we understand he has made a good story of the times of Tiberius Cæsar.

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY will publish shortly "The Red Anvil," by Charles R. Sherlock, a story of abolition days, the scene of which is laid in a rural village of Central New York, a so-called "station" on the "Underground Railroad." They will also publish at once "Amor Victor," a romance of Ephesus and Rome, A.D. 95-115, by Orr Kenyon.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish on the 17th inst. George W. Cable's new story, "Bylow Hill," with illustrations in color by F. C. Yohn. From the rapidly growing advance orders it is evident that widespread interest invests this new novel by the author of "The Cavalier." The fact that it is his first story of the South probably also has something to do with it.

THE OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS, (American Branch,) will publish shortly an entirely new edition of the "Oxford Minion Self-pronouncing Bible," printed on fine white as well as on the famous Oxford India papers; also, "The Oxford Illustrated Bible." They have just ready a new edition of the Marked New Testament, in styles from fifteen cents upwards; also, the "Oxford Long Primer Self-pronouncing Bible" on white paper and on the Oxford India paper. They announce that the Oxford India paper edition of Dickens's works, published by them in co-operation with Chapman & Hall, will be completed in July.

THE NEW AMSTERDAM BOOK COMPANY have just ready a witty story entitled "T. Racksole and Daughter," by Arnold Bennett, author of "The Gates of Wrath," etc., with a colored frontispiece; also, a story by Arthur W. Marchmont, entitled "Miser Hoadley's Secret," with illustrations by Clare Angell. They announce the following in their Commonwealth Library: An unabridged reprint of the 1814 edition of "Lewis and Clark's Expedition," in three volumes; Mackenzie's "History of the Fur Trade and Voyages to the Arctic," in two volumes; Golden's "History of the Five Indian Nations," in two volumes; also, Mathew Arnold's "Literature and Dogma." These volumes are printed on special paper and are sold at the uniform price of one dollar a volume.

LOTHROP PUBLISHING COMPANY have just ready "The Gate of the Kiss," by John W. Harding, which picturesquely reproduces the court life of Eastern civilization among the Jews and Assyrians, in which great historical figures like Hezekiah, Isaiah and Sennacherib take part. The book contains four illustrations by George Varian. They announce a novel entitled "Margaret Bowlby," by Edgar L. Vincent, which deals with life and politics in a mining town, into which a love story of remarkable sweetness is woven; "Mr. Whitman: a Story of the Brigands," by Elisabeth, a quaintly humorous and charming piece of Stocktonian work; also, Margaret Sidney's latest, "Five Little Peppers Abroad," in which Mrs. Lothrop takes her characters, Mother Pepper—now Mother Fisher—the little doctor, Polly and Phronsie, over seas, with Grandpa King, Jasper and Parson and Mrs. Henderson, where in new scenes and new experiences the brightness, the wit, the keen knowledge of child nature that have made all the Pepper books so irresistible are just as conspicuous as they have been in the Pepper stories at home.

Opens with a brief sketch of the history of Cuba, some consideration of the relations which for a century or more have existed between the people of that island and our own country, a statement of the results of the Spanish-American war in so far as it involved Cuba alone, and a general statement of conditions prevailing at the beginning of the American occupation. Special descriptions follow under the title of The trust of the various departments of Public Works, Public Instruction, Charities and Correction, Custom House and Post-office, etc. Also a chapter on Gen. Wood at Santiago.

Barlow, Jane. At the back of beyond. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1902. [Ap.] c. 3+358 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Irish character sketches. According to the author, if you inquire for a person's address in Ireland you are apt to be told you can find him "At the back of beyond." Occurrences which in more stirring neighborhoods seem quite ordinary are accounted rare "At the back of beyond." The stories therefore treat mostly of trivial mishaps. Some of the titles are: A white kerchief; A wedding gown; The wrong turning; Her bit of money; A magpie's nest. By the author of "A creel of Irish stories."

A witty and most amusing account of a trip taken abroad with Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie by the author and her sister Bee. Everything had its funny side for them, which they successfully make evident to the reader. They have a house-boat at Henley during the races; visit Paris, Strasburg and Baden-Baden, Stuttgart, Nüremberg and Bayreuth, Munich, the Austrian Tyrol, Salzburg, Vienna, etc.; make the acquaintance of Tolstoi and Max Nordau, see the Passion play, etc Besant, Sir Walter. Autobiography of Sir Walter Besant; with a prefatory note by S. Squire Sprigge. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1902. [Ap.] c. 27+285 p. por. O. cl., net, $2.40.

Sir Walter Besant figured so prominently in the letters of his time and possessed such a strong and lovable personality that this story of his life, told in his genial, cheery way, must inevitably appeal to a very large class of readers. Few people realize what a busy and varied life he led. He was originally destined for the church, but his tastes ran in other directions; he was for many years the secretary of the Palestine Exploration Fund. It was chiefly owing to his book, "All sorts and conditions of men," that the People's Palace was built, which has done as much as any other agency to mitigate the joylessness of life in East London. It was in memory of what he had done for East London, together with his notable achievement in founding the Incorporated Society of Authors, that he was knighted in 1895.

Bourne, H: E. The teaching of history and civics in the elementary and secondary school. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1902. c. 7+385 p. O. (American teachers' ser.; ed. by Ja. E. Russell.) cl., $1.50.

Aims especially to aid those who have not had special training in historical work, better to comprehend the nature of the subject. The first part has been written to set them on the way toward a better comprehension of certain aspects of history. The second offers a review of the general field, which may guide those who require such help intelligently to study its many phases. Bibliographies affixed to each chapter. Author is professor in the College for Women, Western Reserve University.

Emerson, Willis G: Buell Hampton. Bost., Forbes & Co., 1902. c. 6-420 p. D. cl., $1.50.
Ranch and range life on the western plains are realistically depicted. With glimpses of the political life of the region in which the novel is laid—the great southwest—there are many fine descriptions of the natural phenomena of the country. The central figures in the romance are Major Buell Hampton and Ethel Horton. Buell Hampton, philanthropist and philosopher, is the editor and proprietor of the Patriot. He is an idealist working for humanity. Ethel Horton is the daughter of a western "cattle king" who has been educated in London. Her mother's ambition is that she shall marry a titled Englishman.

Hosmer, Ja. Kendall. The history of the Louisiana purchase. N. Y., Appleton, 1902. [Ap.] c. 15+230 p. il. map, D. cl., net, $1.20.
The story that Dr. Hosmer tells of the acquisition of the western empire included in the Louisiana Purchase presents new and picturesque phases of a most important historical event of peculiar and timely interest, in view of the anniversary which comes next year. He pictures the vague and curious ideas of the Louisiana country held by most Americans one hundred years ago, and the objections to this form of expansion. He treats the changes in the ownership of the territory from France to Spain, and again to France, and he develops fully the purposes and acts of Jefferson and the American Commissioners in Paris. Of special importance from both the historical and personal points of view are the chapters which picture the leading part taken by Napoleon in bringing about the sale of Louisiana, and the relations between France and America, which are shown to possess a historical importance that has not been appreciated.

Forty-five writers take part in this discussion. The general questions are stated in the first part. The other six parts discuss: Pt. 2, Combinations of employers and employed—are they mutually beneficial?; Trusts and labor unions. Pt. 3, Trusts and labor unions from a legal aspect. Pt. 4, Conciliation and arbitration. Pt. 5, Model industries. Pt. 6, Socialism and single tax. Pt. 7, The unemployed. Index.

Laut, Agnes C. Heralds of empire: being the story of one Ramsay Stanhope, lieutenant to Pierre Radisson in the northern fur trade. N. Y., Appleton, 1902. [My.] c. 7+372 p. D. cl., $1.50.
The author of "Lords of the north" has chosen a broader field for her new romance, which embodies a tale of absorbing interest. The threads of her story connect the Boston of refugees and witches and the London of Charles II. with the White Wilderness of the north. She has written of the days of Radisson, that most picturesque adventurer, whose life of dice throwing with fate, of quarrels, captivity, daring exploits, perilous explorations, and reckless changes of allegiance, was crowned, so far as history is concerned, by the delivery of the Empire of the North to England instead of to France.

Liddell, Mark Harvey. An introduction to the scientific study of English poetry: being prolegomena to a science of English prosody. N. Y., Doubleday, Page & Co., 1902. [Ap.] c. 16+312 p. D. cl., net, $1.25.

The author treats poetic phenomena as being definitely knowable in terms of scientific truth; seeks to discover the essential elements of poetic forms of expression in the history of their development; endeavors briefly to classify these in simple and intelligible categories, and to examine English poetry in relation to these categories with a view to formulating a practical English prosody based upon essential characteristics of English poetic form.

This romance of Westmoreland introduces American readers to a fresh and characteristic local English field that abounds in quaint and delightful features, vividly set forth. The romances of the poor and proud "T'bacca queen" and her more fortunate cousin, the results which follow the remarkable will of Richard Carrodus, and the quaint child-life and curious characters of the "Fellsiders," are admirably pictured in the course of a story distinguished by its sustained interest as well as by its wealth of local color.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

Otto Wegelin, Stamford, Conn., has compiled and published the titles of American novels written by writers born or residing in America, and published before 1830, entitled "Early American Fiction, 1774-1830." The work, containing about 150 titles, is complementary to the author's "Early American Plays, 1774-1830," published by the Dunlap Society in 1900.

B. Behr's Verlag, Berlin W. 35, has just published the first number of a bi-monthly bibliography of art, entitled "Internationale Bibliographie der Kunstwissenschaft," edited by Arthur L. Jellinek, of Vienna. The first issue covers January and February of the present year, and records about 600 titles of books and articles on the subject in periodicals, year books, society publications and, in some cases, in newspapers. The editor is a well-known authority in bibliographic matters and the periodical certainly fills a want. Each volume will be supplied with a full subject index (10 marks a year.)

The Bulletin of Bibliography, published by the Boston Book Company, 83 Francis Street, Boston, began its third volume with the April number, (issued April 25.) It contains the first instalment of an "Annotated list of books and articles to aid in the study of King Alfred's life and times," compiled by Mary Medlicott, of the City Library, Springfield, Mass.; part seven of the second series of George Watson Cole's "Bermuda in Periodical Literature," with occasional references to other works; also, a list of "Best Editions of Robert Louis Stevenson," compiled by Isabel Ely Lord. The number also contains the quarterly list of new periodicals and changes in the periodical world; and a "Quarterly Index to Reference Lists Published by Libraries," published by the Providence, R. I., Public Library.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

MAY 10, 1902.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, should reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

RETURNING GOODS.

OF the ills with which commerce is afflicted few are more annoying than the constant returning of goods. Besides causing irritation it also involves expense, requiring extra bookkeeping and clerical service, and additional work in many departments. It is, also, in many cases, a source of positive loss—as goods, if not actually damaged in packing and unpacking, unavoidably lose their freshness; or they are returned so long after purchase as to have become unseasonable, or, in the case of a novelty, out of fashion, altogether

The retailer who is guilty of this practice is evidently so shallow a character that he does not realize that he is making for himself an unenviable reputation in the business world, and that such practice impairs not only his credit but lessens his chances to enjoy favors when he may most need them.

But the fault is apt to lie in the very core of that part of the trade which suffers most—namely, the wholesaler's establishment. Orders are frequently made out in a careless manner by the salesman that lead to mistakes in filling. Inevitable misunderstanding is liable to occur in filling orders; but these are comparatively infrequent and do not come under consideration here. More often than not, substitutions are made deliberately in the hope that the customer will keep what he receives. For all these reasons the retailer is certainly justified in making returns. But through such faults of the wholesale house the customer falls easily into the habit of returning goods, and is then not always particular about having good and sufficient cause for his action.

This, then, seems to be a case where reform must begin at home. The salesman abroad as well as at home must be careful in making out his orders, and the house must guard against mistakes in filling the orders by a series of checks and counter checks. By adopting such a course the chronic offenders among the retailers may easily be detected and eliminated.

POSTAL RULINGS OVERRULED.

JUSTICE A. C. BRADLEY, in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, on May 6 rendered a decision in the injunction case brought by R. W. Haynes and Duane E. Fox, counsel for the Railway Equipment and Publication Company, against Postmaster-General Henry C. Payne. The decision was rendered on the demurrer filed by the Postmaster-General to the complainant's bill for an injunction to prevent the Postmaster-General from charging the third-class rate instead of the second-class rate on the complainant's publication known as the "Pocket List of Railroad Officials." This was the first injunction case brought to determine the power of the Postmaster-General to charge the higher rate under a departmental regulation promulgated on July 17, 1901.

Justice Bradley also decided two mandamus cases involving the official railway guide and official list. The purport of Justice Bradley's decision is that the regulation promulgated by the Postmaster-General goes beyond the law, and is practically an amendment of the law which the Postmaster-General has no power to make. In the mandamus cases, the Justice ordered writs to issue restoring the second-class privilege to the publications involved, and in the injunction case the Justice continued the injunction preventing the Postmaster-General from refusing to carry the pocket list at the lower rate of postage.

The decision by Judge Bradley is only the beginning of the battle. The District Attorney will have a conference with the department authorities, with a view to carrying these cases up to the Circuit Court of Appeals, and they will go thence to the Supreme Court of the United States if again decided against the government. The department refuses to admit the right of a court to classify mail matter—an executive function expressly committed by law to the Postmaster-General.

A decision is expected as we go to press in the fifteen injunction cases pending, in which the issue is wholly different from that raised in the three cases just decided. Judge Bradley ruled out the other day the application of the department for such modification of the injunctions as would permit the department to collect third-class rates pending the conclusion of the litigation. He said that as he was to decide the cases one way or the other so soon, the collection of the old second-class rates for a few days more or less would not damage either party, but he would require the publishers to "undertake" to pay the difference if the suits went finally against them. The lawyers and the bonding companies are now trying to find out whether the Judge used the term "undertake" in the usual legal sense of giving bond.

THE BRAINWORKERS.

THE Brainworkers' Association will hold its first public meeting at Carnegie Hall on Sunday evening, May 11. Julia Ward Howe, the guest of honor, will recite the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," and also speak on "The Ethical Office of the Drama." Edwin Markham, the president of the association, will read a poem and also deliver an address on "The Power of the Ideal." Other features, including music, will make an interesting programme.

The "Brainworkers' Association" is an organization whose object is the development of the best that thought can produce—in art, letters, the drama, religion and every activity of life. Its aim is co-operation, and its activities will be carried out through a fund which will be available when necessary to supplement genius. No branch of brainwork will be neglected.

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE.

THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE will give its regular monthly dinner at the rooms of the Aldine Association on the evening of May 14. Among the entertainers thus far secured for this occasion are Ernest Thompson Seton, who has promised to give a talk about animals; Joseph Hamblen Sears, of the staff of Harper & Brothers, and author of "Fur and Feather Tales," etc., who will have something to say about "angling for authors;" and Lewis Burgess, of Brentano's, who will give some recitations about "Down Souf."

CATHOLIC PUBLISHERS TAKE ACTION ON THE DEATH OF ARCHBISHOP CORRIGAN.

AT a meeting of the Catholic Publishers and Dealers in Church Goods of New York, held on Wednesday, May 7, to take action on the death of the Most Rev. Michael Augustine Corrigan, Archbishop of New York, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted.

It has pleased Almighty God in His inscrutable wisdom to take from us our beloved and revered Archbishop.

In the death of Archbishop Corrigan the orphans, who owed so much to his loving care, have lost an unselfish friend, and his other children in the faith an indulgent father, a wise counsellor, a zealous and holy priest of God.

He gave unsparingly of his wisdom, his time and his wealth for the care of those intrusted to him and for the upbuilding and advancement of the Church.

His sweet, courteous, gentle manner attracted all who enjoyed the pleasure of meeting him, while in matters of principle, right and justice he stood firm and unyielding.

Therefore be it

Resolved, That while we humbly bow to the divine will we lament the death of our Archbishop as a bereavement which comes to each of us personally.

Resolved, That as an evidence of our love and respect we close our business places on Friday, the 9th inst., the day of his burial.

OBITUARY NOTES.

HENRY WHEELER CURTISS, for many years connected with the firm of A. S. Barnes & Co., and for the last twenty years senior partner in the firm of Hoenighaus & Curtiss, silk merchants, died in New York, May 2.

EMBREY SCOTT WATSON, manager of the advertising department of Town Topics and Smart Set, who fell through the elevator shaft at his home, No. 17 West Twenty-sixth Street, New York, Sunday night, died in the New York Hospital May 7 as the result of his injuries. He was thirty-five years old.

JOHN BACKUP died April 30, at Roxbury, Mass. He was born in Tariffville, Conn., in 1831, and removed to Roxbury when he was eighteen years old. Mr. Backup was always actively interested in the public affairs of his district. He was postmaster of Roxbury during Lincoln's administration. Though debarred from service on account of the loss of his right hand when a boy, he was active in organizing companies to go to the front during the Civil War. In recent years he kept a book and stationery store at 117 Dudley Street.

N. J. BARTLETT, senior member of the firm of N. J. Bartlett & Co., booksellers, at 28 Cornhill, Boston, died at his home in Andover, Mass., aged sixty-eight. Mr. Bartlett began as a bookseller in 1859. In 1867 he formed the firm of Bartlett & Halliday. A few years later his associate, W. H. Halliday, retired, and the firm then became Bartlett & Young. Later the firm became N. J. Bartlett & Co., and for years has been widely and favorably known. Mr. Bartlett is survived by a son, Edward, who was associated with him in business, and a married daughter.

As we go to press word is received of the murder of Paul Leicester Ford, the author of "Janice Meredith," etc., at his home, 37 East Seventy-seventh Street, New York, by his brother, Malcolm Webster Ford, the athlete. After shooting his brother, Malcolm shot himself, death following immediately. Malcolm had for some time past been causing uneasiness to the family by showing evidence of an unbalanced mind. His action can only be explained by inference. For some time past his affairs had been oppressing him, and he has repeatedly asked and received material assistance from his brother. It is presumed that his importunities had become such and his demands so excessive that his brother was forced to refuse further aid. Paul Leicester Ford was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., in 1865. In infancy he was injured and crippled. Educated by his father, Gordon L. Ford, a prominent lawyer and at one time publisher of the New York Tribune, and private tutors, he early turned his attention to literature and publishing. Among his earliest literary works were the "Writings of Thomas Jefferson," in ten volumes, of which he was the editor; the "Writings of John Dickinson," which he also edited, in three volumes, and many other pamphlets and brochures. The novels on which his present fame chiefly rests are "The Honorable Peter Stirling" and "Janice Meredith." Other books he has written are "The Many-Sided Franklin," "The True George Washington," "Tattle Tales of Cupid," "The Great K. and A. Train Robbery," and a collection of short stories. Malcolm W. Ford, best known as an athlete and as a writer on athletic events, was born in Brooklyn, February 7, 1862. His devotion to athletics caused an estrangement between him and his father, with the result that his father did not mention him in his will. From that time began the more or less open quarrel which reached its horrible climax Thursday. Failing, after litigation, to get any money from his father's estate, Malcolm Ford has earned a living in various ways. His last employment was as editor of the New Centaur, a magazine which ceased this week to exist, after having issued one or two numbers. In the stress of his later circumstances he had recourse to his brother Paul. Several times recently he had visited Paul and had asked for and received money. It is supposed that his visit to his brother Thursday morning was made primarily to ask for more money, and that perhaps the intention to kill his brother and himself was not deliberately fixed until he had found that his brother was not disposed to give him any further assistance.

FRANCIS BRET HARTE, the prince of short-story tellers, died suddenly on the 6th inst. at the Red House, Camberley, near Aldershot, Eng. Mr. Harte had been living quietly in England for years. Most of his time was spent in the country, and when in London he was almost equally secluded, having few visitors to his rooms at Lancaster Gate, and only going to the houses of a limited number of very intimate friends. Mr. Harte was born in Albany, N. Y., August 25, 1839. In his veins, according to the New York Evening Post, was a mixture of German, English and Hebrew blood. His father was a professor in the Albany Female Academy, and after his death the family migrated to California in 1854. There the future author had the usual varied life of a youthful pioneer, teaching school, digging gold, and setting type by turns, and incidentally collecting a large amount of valuable experience of the ways of frontier society. From 1864 to 1870 he was Secretary of the United States branch mint at San Francisco. When a newspaper compositor in Eureka he first tried his hand at literary composition, setting up his stories in type, instead of writing them, and the ability displayed in them led to his appointment as an assistant editor. But in this capacity he proved more energetic than discreet. His indignant denunciation of the annihilation of a band of Indians by some of his fellow-citizens almost caused the destruction of the newspaper office, and he had to seek other employment. He then started The Californian on his own account; but this experiment, although his own contributions, which included some of his earlier tales, were widely read, proved a failure commercially, but not before its editor had attracted general attention by his clever "Condensed Novels," skits upon the popular fiction of the period, which were compared with some of the same kind of work done by Thackeray. His full opportunity, however, came with the establishment of the Overland Monthly, in 1868, and his appointment as editor. From the first number he was a liberal contributor of poems, sketches and stories, whose freshness, interest, variety and originality at once created a great demand for the new magazine. In it first appeared those famous stories, "The Luck of Roaring Camp" and "The Outcasts of Poker Flat," which were followed in 1870 by "The Heathen Chinee," one of the most successful bits of humorous verse on record, which was quoted all over the country, and was soon almost as well known in Europe as in America. The fame of Mr. Harte was now assured. A collected edition of his works was published by Fields, Osgood & Co., and he came East as a regular contributor to the Atlantic Monthly. At this time he joined the staff of the Evening Post, writing both sketches and editorial articles. In 1878 he was appointed United States Consul at Crefeld, Prussia, a post which he held for two years. Then he was transferred to a similar position at Glasgow, where he remained until 1885. Since that date he has lived chiefly in London. Among his more widely-known works are "Mrs. Skaggs's Husbands," "Tales of the Argonauts," "Gabriel Conroy," "Two Men of Sandy Bar," "The Twins of Table Mountain," "Flip and Found at Blazing Star," "Drift from Redwood Camp," "Thankful Blossom," "M'Liss," "The Heritage of Dedlow Marsh," "A Phyllis of the Sierras," "In a Hollow of the Hills," and "Stories in Light and Shade." Mr. Harte was also the author of many poems which enjoyed much temporary popularity, and several of his stories have been adapted for the stage, with varying degrees of success.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

MARY CHOLMONDELEY, of "Red Pottage" fame, has completed another novel, "Love in Extremes," which will soon be ready for publication.

ANOTHER volume of interesting reminiscences will soon come from M. de Blowitz, whose acquaintance with European affairs as Paris correspondent of the London Times began in 1871, and has continued ever since. In the past thirty years he is said to have written more than 5000 columns of news for his paper, and he has been personally acquainted with most of the well-known figures in European politics.

LILLI LEHMANN'S book on the art of singing is to contain criticisms of the methods of her contemporaries, which are likely to be as interesting as her theories on voice production and other phases of her art. Mme. Lehmann never fails to express her opinions with frankness, and it will be interesting to hear what she thinks of the great singers of her day as compared with herself. Her book is soon to appear in English.

BOOTH TARKINGTON draws his stories before he writes them. He not only maps out the scenes, but makes a complete picture of each one of them, whether it is the circus procession or the rout of the Six Corners under the rifle fire of the vigilants in his "Gentleman from Indiana," or the duel on the high road or the revelation of the young prince in his true character in "Monsieur Beaucaire." Mr. Tarkington was asked to illustrate his Indiana book with his own drawings, but he objected on the ground that they were too crude and that he had not the time to finish them up properly. His new novel, "The Two Vanrevels," a story of love and politics in the Middle West, will begin its serial course next month in McClure's Magazine. It will be brought out in book form in the fall by McClure, Phillips & Co.

IT is no longer a secret that "Benjamin Swift" is merely the pen name of the author of "The Game of Love," about which, under the title of "Ludus Amoris," so much is being written just now in England. The novelist's real name is William Romaine Paterson. He was born in 1871—the son of a Scotch physician—and was educated at Lausanne, Switzerland, and at Glasgow University. His first essay in fiction was "Nancy Noon," published in 1896, when the author was twenty-five, and this has been followed by "The Tormentor" (1897), "The Destroyer" (1898), "Siren City" (1899), "Dartnell" (1899), "Nude Souls" (1900), "The Eternal Conflict," and an essay (1901). To these he has now added a new novel, "The Game of Love," which has just been published in this country by the Scribners. Its English title is "Ludus Amoris."

BUSINESS NOTES.

AMHERST, MASS.—Miss M. F. Clark has bought the M. N. Spear bookstore, which was established in 1849, from W. N. Spear, the son of the founder of the business. The store will be continued under the old name.

BEAVERTON, MICH.—A. E. Holly, of Saginaw, has opened a book, stationery and notion store here.

CIRCLEVILLE, O.—L. and R. C. Weldon have bought the A. Cook bookstore stock, and will close it out.

DECATUR, TEX.—A. D. Rogers has bought J. B. Henderson's book business.

GREENFIELD, IND.—T. B. Reider's bookstore was burned out on April 14.

MUSKEGON, MICH.—The Superior Manufacturing Company is to erect a plant here. It is a Chicago concern in which M. A. Donohue is one of the principal stockholders, and will manufacture books, stationery and school supplies.

NEW YORK CITY.—Justice Bischoff, of the Supreme Court, has appointed William C. White receiver for the assets and effects of the New Centaur Publishing Company, of No. 21 Park Row, publishers of The New Centaur, on application of the Trow Directory, Printing and Bookbinding Company, a creditor for $3243. Ernest S. Partridge is president of the company. The liabilities are $7243 and the assets $2000. The company was organized in 1901, with a capital stock of $125,000. The receiver is required to give a bond of $5000.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—Hugo Witter succeeds C. Witter, bookseller.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Catholic Supply House, booksellers, are selling out.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

S. E. BRIDGMAN, the well-known bookseller of Northampton, Mass., celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday on May 9. We offer our hearty congratulations.

LEWIS, SCRIBNER & Co., New York, have in preparation a novel of the Latin Quarter of Paris, by the war correspondent, Edward Marshall, the title of which will probably be "Nannette."

JOHN WILEY & SONS have just ready the third edition, rewritten, of Professor William P. Mason's work on "Water-Supply, Considered Principally from a Sanitary Standpoint."

THE JOHN C. WINSTON COMPANY, of Philadelphia, is preparing an authorized life of the Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage, by his son, Dr. Frank DeWitt Talmage. The book is to be sold only by subscription.

SNOW & FARNHAM, Providence, R. I., will publish early in the fall a novel of New York life, entitled "John Malcolm," by Edward Fuller, formerly the dramatic critic of the Boston Post, and now the literary critic of the Providence Journal.

QUAIL & WARNER, New York, announce a new novel by Alan Dale, (Alfred J. Cohen,) the well-known dramatic critic, entitled "A Girl Who Wrote," a novel with a purpose, whose characters are drawn from the professions in New York and whose action is all in the metropolis.

G. W. DILLINGHAM Co. will publish in June Augusta Evans Wilson's new novel, "A Speckled Bird," already described by us. Advance orders indicate that 100,000 copies will be sold on publication day. Five London publishing houses have applied for the English rights of the book.

E. & J. B. YOUNG & Co. will shortly bring out in this country "The Divine Ordinance of Prayer," by W. Hay M. H. Aitken; "Under the Dome," by Rt. Rev. A. F. W. Ingram; also, "Official and Lay Witness to the Value of Foreign Missions," by the Rev. G. Longridge. They have in preparation their new catalogue of calendars, cards and novelties for 1902.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have just ready the first volume of the American Sportsman's Library, on "The Deer Family," by Theodore Roosevelt, T. S. Van Dyke, A. J. Stone and D. G. Elliot. Two other volumes in the same series—"Upland Game Birds," by Edwyn Sandys, and "Salmon and Trout," by Dean Sage and William C. Harris—will also be brought out this month.

IT is interesting to note that the novels of Sydney C. Grier, which, with one exception, have never been presented in American editions, have been taken over from the English publishers by L. C. Page & Company, and will be brought out at intervals during the year. The first to come from the press, "The Prince of the Captivity," is a story of political intrigue in the Balkan states.

HURST & BLACKETT, London, announce a series of sporting books to be entitled Imperial Books of Sport, edited by E. F. Benson, the novelist, and Eustace Miles. The first three volumes will deal with training, which will be partly written by Mr. Benson himself; cricket, to which Abel, Hirst and Mead are contributing, and golf, the chapters of which are being written by well-known professional players.

TENNANT & WARD, 287 Fourth Avenue, New York, have made arrangements with the Publication Committee of the New York Camera Club for the remaining sets of the first and second series of "American Pictorial Photography," comprising thirty-six examples of the work of the American school in pictorial photography, reproducing in photogravure and individually mounted to faithfully facsimile the originals.

HENRY HOLT & Co. will issue at once "General Principles of Physical Science: an Introduction to the study of the general principles of chemistry," a handy manual, in which the author, Professor Arthur A. Noyes, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, presents those fundamental principles of physical chemistry, the knowledge of which is essential as a basis for a thorough study of modern "physical chemistry."

THE CAXTON BOOK COMPANY, of Cleveland, Ohio, have in press a second edition of 25,000 copies of the novel "Blood Will Tell, the Strange Story of a Son of Ham," by Benjamin Rush Davenport, illustrated by Donahey. The book has received uniform praise as a "story of great interest and much power." The publishers offer a prize of $1000 for the best dramatization of the story received before the end of the present year.

D. VAN NOSTRAND COMPANY have just ready the eleventh edition, entirely rewritten, of a "First Book of Qualitative Chemistry for Studies of Water Solution and Mass Action," by Albert B. Prescott and Eugene C. Sullivan, of the University of Michigan; "Workshop Wrinkles for Decorators, Painters, Paperhangers and Others," edited by William Norman Brown; also, "Notes on Lead Ores—their Distribution and Properties," by the late James Fairie, a painstaking and practical geologist.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish next week "An Onlooker's Note-Book," a volume of reminiscences and comment, by W. E. Russell, son of Lord Charles Russell, whose two volumes of "Collections and Recollections," published some years ago, attracted considerable attention. At the same time they will publish a political novel entitled "Marion Manning," the scenes of which are laid in Washington, with glimpses of life in Virginia and New England, by Mrs. Edith Eustis, a daughter of the Hon. Levi P. Morton.

J. F. TAYLOR & Co., New York, announce an interesting novel for art lovers, students of art and artists, in "The Honor of the Braxtons," a story of student life in Normandy and the Latin Quarter, by J. William Fosdick. The author's purpose is to impress upon his readers three facts: (1) that the painter can never produce a great picture so long as he merely copies nature; (2) that the very quintessence of purity, beauty, nobility is found in the nude in art; and (3) that a man's life may be wrecked by continued wrong thinking.

LEE & SHEPARD have in preparation an Autograph edition of "Sunset Song, and Other Verses," by Elizabeth Akers, author of "Rock Me to Sleep," with illustrated titlepage, cover design, etc., by Grace Barton Allen; "Chips, Fragments and Vestiges," by Gail Hamilton, arranged by H. Augusta Dodge, with illustrations from photographs; "Concerning Polly—and Some Others," a story of New England life, by Helen M. Winslow, with illustrations by Charles Copeland; also, "Marching on Niagara, or, the Soldier Boy of the Old Frontier," the second volume of the Colonial Series, by Edward Stratemeyer.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will publish next week "Spanish Life in Town and Country," by L. Higgin, a new volume in Our European Neighbors Series, which will be fully illustrated. During the last week of this month or early in June they will publish "Life at West Point, the Making of an Army Officer," by H. Irving Hancock, with an introduction by Colonel A. L. Mills, the superintendent of the academy; "The Suitors of Yvonne," a novel of the days of Mazarin, by Rafael Sabatini; "Lenox and the Berkshire Highlands," by R. De Witt Mallary, illustrated with reproductions from photographs made specially for the book; also, Professor Leo Wiener's "Anthology of Russian Literature."

THE CENTURY COMPANY publish to-day, the 10th inst., "Chimmie Fadden and Mr. Paul," by Edward W. Townsend, and "The Rescue," by Anne Douglas Sedgwick, with new editions of Miss Sedgwick's former books, "The Dull Miss Archinard" and "The Confounding of Camelia," both of the latter in new form and with colored frontispieces. The new volume of poetry by Robert Underwood Johnson, soon to be published by the Century Company, will contain all the material which appeared in Mr. Johnson's previous volumes, "The Winter Hour, and Other Poems," and "Songs of Liberty, and Other Poems," with his later pieces, the "Italian Rhapsody," from the March Atlantic, the ballad of "Dewey at Manila," and a number of lyrical pieces.

DREXEL BIDDLE has just brought out a volume of poems, entitled "Transcriptions from Art and Nature," by William Struthers, a name familiar to the readers of the magazines to which he has contributed much serious verse, notably in the sonnet form, and occasional translations from the Italian made with more than usual sympathy. The "Transcriptions" are partly lyrical expressions of the subjects suggested or the emotions aroused by well-known musical compositions; partly they are appreciations, in sonnet form, of poets and lyric artists. Others take their inspiration from nature, with a graceful concentration that shows the fruit of study of Italian models. In conclusion, there are a number of lyrics in varied form, in which also a sensitiveness to nature's moods is poetically expressed.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO. have in preparation a new volume by Walter H. Page, editor of The World's Work, entitled "The Rebuilding of Old Commonwealths," which stands for that vigorous movement in education that is just now searching out the "forgotten man," particularly in the South. In a larger view it is really a study of democracy, the very virtue of which, says Mr. Page in his preface, "is that by the right training of all its children it has the power constantly to reinforce itself in the rear." The book opens with "The School that Built a Town," a picturesque presentation of the conditions discussed. They have just ready a volume of studies entitled "Spiritual Heroes," by David Saville Muzzey, which treats of such characters as Jeremiah, the Buddha, Socrates, Jesus, St. Paul, Marcus Aurelius, Augustine, Mohammed and Luther, as men and as living issues of their own age, as well as representatives of some main contribution to contemporaneous thought. They will publish shortly "The Trust: Its Book," made up of contributions from C. R. Flint, J. H. Bridge, J. J. Hill, S. C. T. Dodd and Francis B. Thurber; also, a new illustrated edition of Ollivant's "Bob, Son of Battle." A new novel by Mr. Ollivant, entitled "Danny," will be published in the fall.

AUCTION SALES.

[Under this heading advance notices will be inserted without charge, of book auction sales to be held anywhere in the United States. Word should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.]

JOHN ANDERSON, JR., 20 W. Thirtieth Street, New York, will sell, May 12 and 13, the sixth portion of the McKee Library, which includes some choice and very rare items of Americana and English literature and many volumes notable for their personal associations. Among the Americana are two of the rarest Bradford imprints—Keith's "Truth and Innocency Defended against Calumny and Defamation in a Late Report concerning the Revolutions of Humane Souls" (1692), and Colden's "History of the Five Nations Depending upon the Province of New York," (1727;) the original edition (1634) of Wood's "New England's Prospect," with the map; Roger Williams's "Key Into the Language of America," 1643, with the autograph of Robert Southey; Thomas's "Pennsylvania and West New Jersey," 1698; the rare Franklin imprint—"A Catalogue of Choice and Valuable Books to be sold April 11, 1744," Franklin being the auctioneer as well as printer. Besides these there are a number of other prizes in the department of Americana. In the department of literature there is a long and important list of Shelley's works in first editions, and many first and rare editions of Burns. Among the books notable for their personal interest may be mentioned Gray's copy of Linneus; Moore's wife's copy of Wright's "Guide to the Lakes of Killarney," with Thomas Moore's autograph; Shelley's copy of "The History of Romances;" Dickens's own copy of "David Copperfield,' presented to J. L. Rickards; and a number of others equally interesting. The seventh part of the collection, consisting of another portion of McKee's remarkable collection of manuscripts, drawings, playbills, etc., will be sold in the fall, and still another part, comprised of the same species of material, will be sold later, concluding the dispersal of the entire collection.

MAY 14, 7:30 P.M.—Rare Americana, first editions of American authors, etc. (334 lots.) —John Anderson, jr.

MAY 16, 7:30 P.M.—American history, rare examples of the works of American engravers, rare portraits, etc., from the collections of Joseph Brevard and Richard Champion. (332 lots.)—John Anderson, jr.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

☞ Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

DIARY OF A GOOSE GIRL

By KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN, author of the "Penelope Books," etc. With 54 illustrations by Claude A. Shepperson. 12*mo*, $1.00.

A tale of an American girl who ran away from her lover and played at being a goose girl in a tiny Sussex village. The delightful humor and play of fancy for which Mrs. Wiggin is famous have free range. Her sentiment for beauty finds abundant play in the descriptions of the village where the heroine tended poultry, and she has succeeded in individualizing her hens, ducks, and geese, making them as interesting as human heroes and heroines. The attractiveness of the book is heightened by lavish illustrations. It is an enjoyable piece of literature.

AN AMERICAN AT OXFORD

By JOHN CORBIN. Fully illustrated, 12*mo*, $1.50, net, postage, 13 cents.

The will of the late Cecil Rhodes has directed general attention to this ancient seat of learning which John Corbin delightfully describes in his book. Mr. Corbin has been in residence at Oxford for a year, and tells of student life from every point of view. The author has provided charming illustrations which help to make the volume wholly attractive.

TO THE END OF THE TRAIL

By FRANK LEWIS NASON. With a decorative cover by Berkeley Smith. 12mo, $1.50.

This novel of the West breathes the space and freedom of Colorado ranch and mining life. Its characters are drawn with exceptional life-likeness, and the story is full of swift, significant action, increasing in interest up to its dramatic climax.

JOHN KENADIE

By RIPLEY D. SAUNDERS. 12*mo*, $1.50.

A strong character study of the man, John Kenadie, and his perplexing inheritance. The story is laid in Arkansas, and both scenes and characters have the charm of newness.

BREAD AND WINE

By MAUDE EGERTON KING. 12*mo*, $1.25.

An idyllic story of Swiss peasant life, into which the author has woven so much of the color and atmosphere of Swiss village life, and so much sympathy with her characters, that the book is thoroughly charming.

DANIEL WEBSTER

By SAMUEL W. McCALL. 16*mo*, 80 cents, net, postage, 8 cents.

Mr. McCall here recounts with brevity and point the chief incidents in Webster's career and his more important services to his country. He presents with clearness and directness those characteristics and achievements of Webster's life which best entitle him to the admiring memory of the American people.

STUDIES IN HISTORY AND JURISPRUDENCE

By James Bryce, D.C.L. 8vo, cloth, $3.50 net; half morocco, $6.00 net; postage, 27 cents.

"Taken as a whole, these essays constitute an incomparable treatise on the legal aspects of history."—N. Y. Nation, February 20, 1902.

"It is no exaggeration to say that no man living is better qualified to write upon these and kindred topics than the author of 'The American Commonwealth.' The essays are all distinguished by that careful, painstaking research, profound learning, and scrupulous fairness and impartiality that have given Mr. Bryce's previous works such remarkable vogue among the learned and cultured of both hemispheres. The study entitled 'Hamilton and Tocqueville' will undoubtedly possess peculiar interest for American readers."—Albany Law Journal, January, 1902.

JUST PUBLISHED

By DR. W. S. RAINSFORD

The REASONABLENESS of FAITH
AND OTHER ADDRESSES

Dr. Rainsford has done about as much as any man of our time to spread the broad, healthy, manful and courageous Christianity for which he stands. Eminently direct and practical, never sentimental or mawkish, full of strength and vigor and physical force, this book, like the man himself, is nevertheless infused with a burning spirit of religious belief and trust. A more fresh-air, tonic volume of talks upon religious subjects would be difficult to find.

SPIRITUAL HEROES

By DAVID S. MUZZEY

The author, believing thoroughly in the primacy of soul over matter and of men over events, views the spiritual heroes of these essays primarily as the creators of the moral wealth of humanity. The heroes treated in the essays are chosen representatives of the main currents of spiritual thought that have contributed to our contemporaneous moral and religious life: the Hebrew Prophets, the Indian Metaphysicians, the Greek Philosophers, the Christian Apostles, the Roman Organizers, etc. The chapters are on Jeramiah, the Buddha, Socrates, Jesus, Saint Paul, Marcus Aurelius, Augustine, Mohammed and Martin Luther.

READY SHORTLY

Two Books that Cannot Fail to Make a Mark

THE RED ANVIL

A Romance of Fifty Years Ago

By CHARLES R. SHERLOCK

Author of "Your Uncle Lew," one of the successes of 1901

WHILE touching American history at a period that is alive with literary possibilities, the author's main purpose is to tell an absorbing story. In the narrative Mr. Sherlock makes use of the "Underground Railroad," through the operations of which Abolition in the North set at defiance the enforcement of the Fugitive Slave Law of 1850.

The scene is laid in a rural village of Central New York, a so-called "station" on the "Underground Railroad," and the story brings into action people on both sides of the slavery question, showing them as they were without bias or prejudice.

Mr. Sherlock illustrates in the character of Lyman Disbrow, an itinerant picture-maker, how good men felt the rigor of those times, and he has thrown a picture on the canvas which is new in American fiction. Indeed most of the ground covered in "The Red Anvil" is untilled, and the work cannot be long in finding favor with the reading public.

The quick contrast of pathos and humor, the lively description, that centered attention on "Your Uncle Lew," will be found in Mr. Sherlock's new work.

12mo, Cloth, with Frontispiece, $1.50

AMOR VICTOR

By ORR KENYON

A ROMANCE of Ephesus and Rome, A.D. 95–115. The principal character is Arsaces, the first Christian bishop. There are striking pictures of the life and persecutions of the Christians in Ephesus at the time, and also of the worship of Diana there in all its sensuality.

When Arsaces was taken to Rome he became one of the most famous gladiators of his time. There are most thrilling descriptions of his contests in the arena, which are told by the author with tremendous power.

Finally escaping from captivity Arsaces becomes converted, and in company with his wife, who had been a celebrated beauty and an unbeliever until he courted her, he spent the rest of his life in spreading the principles of Christianity, and this meant necessarily in those times a career of danger and adventure.

This book is one of striking interest, and gives a most vivid picture of the times.

Trade List and General Catalogues Supplied.

PUBLISHERS who safeguard crevices through which high binding bills creep, are ultimately bound to lead the procession in the onward march of progress. Just stop long enough in the whirl of your busy hours to consider the vast importance and advantage to your interests which a connection with me implies. A line to me either to call or submit samples and estimates will have the desired effect. The annual sum total I am positive I can save you in your binding account is sufficient to provide a dividend, the amount of which some of the best publishers don't earn. In spite of being your lowest bidder I will give you the highest character of work, employing only the highest priced labor, thus obtaining the best possible results. My plant and facilities are unequalled. Don't allow yourselves to be blinded by cant and misrepresentation. The constant hum of my busy plant is a sufficient answer to those who disregard the broad plane of justice and equality. Even those publishers who have their own plants find that I can do their work cheaper and better than they can produce it themselves.

Some Disclaimers and a Claim

THERE are plenty of novels every season which are exploited as monuments of genius. One would suppose from the announcements that new and loftier standards of literary art were to be established by them for all time. Most of them last about six months. Thereafter they're sold by weight.

In the case of "The Hound of the Baskervilles" we aren't advancing any such claims. We don't assert that this novel marks a turning point in English literature. We hardly think that it will cause Thackeray and Dickens and Stevenson to totter on their pedestals. We should be genuinely surprised if it outsold "Trilby" or relegated Shakespeare to the rear. So would the author, Dr. Doyle. If we live until 2002 we shall hardly expect to find Mr. Carnegie's libraries of that date crowded with it.

But what we do say is this: The new Sherlock Holmes novel may be dead one hundred years from now, but it's very much alive to-day. It is the high-water mark of detective fiction. Although it has been out but three weeks, more than 50,000 people have bought and read it already. Their enthusiasm over it will probably inspire 100,000 more to read, rejoice and pass the good thing along.

The HOLMAN BIBLES

AS was expected, the addition of full-page pictures (made from photographs) to our Nonpareil Hand Bible (the type is called Minion by some folks), made it one of the best sellers last year. It will be even a greater success this year, because better known. The No. 215 is by all odds the most attractive circuit bound Bible in the market for the money—and the price is right. The binding is attractive, durable and absolutely flexible. An original and persuasive argument is on every box.

You will find every desirable kind of a Bible or Testament in the HOLMAN LINE this year.

Two New Books by Two Popular Authors

THE FOOL

By WILLIAM H. CARSON, author of "Hester Blair"

"The Fool," is really a man of parts; cultivated above others in the village and possessed of legal knowledge, together with considerable means, left him by his father, all of which he contrives, for reasons of his own, to keep from knowledge of his neighbors, and reveals only to his dog, a canine of supernormal intelligence, with whom he holds long conversations. He treats the reader to some quaint and interesting bits of philosophizing on life and its ways.
